History Of Donga Gali

Donga Gali is one of the tourist mountain resort towns of the Galiyat area of Ayubia National Park, at an altitude of 2,500 meters (8,200 ft) in Northern Pakistan. Donga Gali is located in the Nathia Gali Union Council of Abbottabad District in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Province. During British rule Donga Gali hill station served as a sanatorium and contained a hotel, post office and a small Church known as St. Johns Church. The area was visited by Europeans during summer, who also had houses on the southern slopes of the nearby Mushkpuri mountains.

Donga Gali has the following attractions:

- 4 km long Pipe Line walk from Donga Gali to Ayubia.
- Historical Mushkpuri Hiking track.
- Wild life museum and park.
- More than a century old, largest water storage tanks for the whole of Galiyat and Murree region.
- Visit to Nathia Gali.
- Famous old Motto Bridge on pipe line.

Brief History of Retreat and Training Centre (RTC)

The plan to develop a Retreat and Training Centre at Donga Gali was much needed, as the Diocese of Peshawar was paying for various programmes for Priests, women, youth, junior church and evangelists to use other facilities in the Galliyat region.

The Church of St. John's at Donga Gali had a very good and convenient plot adjacent to it, with water, electricity and a good approach road. Therefore it was decided in 2006 to make plans to build a 10 room accommodation with different capacities.

The construction work began in 2007. Due to non availability of funds at various stages, the Retreat and Training Centre was finally completed in 2013.

Since the rooms are furnished with bed bunks the total capacity including accommodation in the attic comes to approximately 60-70 persons.

The Church itself has been fully renovated and opened up to seat 60-70 worshippers. The Centre is available for all denominations of churches in Pakistan.
